Teacher(s)	Class Description	Information
Cariadoc (MKA David Friedman)	“Lauzinaj” Lauzinaj is a rolled desert that appears in multiple period Islamic cookbooks. It is sometimes, I think incorrectly, viewed as a predecessor of baklava. Unlike baklava it does not use filo and is not baked; the result, as best I can tell, is more like a dim sum rolled noodle than a pastry. The class will demonstrate three different recipes for making a very thin wrapping, based on different period sources, and use the wrappings to make lauzinaj. I do not guarantee to get it as thin as a grasshopper’s wing, as per one period description.	Lecture/Demonstration Unlimited No fee See website in lieu of handout.
Cariadoc (MKA David Friedman)	“Flatbreads and Frying Pan Pastries” A demonstration of a period flatbread recipe and two period pastry recipes, all of which can be made in a frying pan over your campfire. The flatbread is 10th century Middle Eastern, the pastries are both 13th century Maghrebi.	Demonstration Unlimited No fee See website in lieu of handout.
Ceara ingen Chonaill (MKA Carolyn Trontoski)	“Aprons thru the Ages.” (one hour only) Aprons in Western Europe from the 11th to 16th centuries.	Lecture/Discussion Up to 15 $1 Handout included

Teacher(s)	Class Description	Information
Christianna MacGrain (MKA Christine Seelye-King)	"Breaking The Fast, What Did They Eat For Breakfast?" The word Breakfast literally means "Breaking the fast of the night before", and refers to the first meal of the day. But what did that meal entail? Certainly the higher classes ate more and better quality than the lower classes did, but what was on that breakfast table? Mistress Christianna MacGrain takes a look at period references to the tables of the high and low born, as well as dishes that we consider to be breakfast fare today that would have been cooked for later meals in period. Come break your fast on Sunday morning and discover how much small beer you would need to keep up with Queen Elizabeth I!	Lecture/Discussion Unlimited
Cordelia Toser (MKA Carole Newson-Smith)	"Quiche-like pies from period sources" There are a number of egg and cheese pies in historic recipe collections. The student will receive printouts of a variety of the recipes. And taste 3 recipes. Students should bring a fork and small plate.	Lecture/tasting 1-8 participants no fee Handout included.
Cordelia Toser (MKA Carole Newson-Smith)	"Piecrust 3 ways" There are a number of recipes for piecrust. Butter and lard are shortenings used historically, whereas solid shortening such as Crisco was not available until the 1920's. We will use all three today. The student will receive handouts of the recipes. Students should bring an apron, large bowl, pastry cutter (or two table knives), rolling pin, measuring cups and spoons.	Hands-on 1-8 participants no fee Handout included.
Crystal of the Westermarck (MKA Crystal Larsen)	"Overview of Kitchen gardens" Discussion and powerpoint slides on period gardens; use and design with emphasis on kitchen gardens and plant containers.	Lecture/Discussion Unlimited No fee Handout included.

Teacher(s)	Class Description	Information
Eibhlin nic'Raghailligh (MKA Kathleen Madsen)	“Chewettes, Hand Pies, and Pasties” An overview of the ultimate travel food or an easy grab-and-go event lunch – hand pies! Chewettes, Hand Pies and Pasties run from very basic fillings wrapped in a crust, up to very elaborate ingredients and pastry shapes that were served at celebratory functions. Participants will be provided with recipes for both fillings and for sturdy crusts that will survive in a travel pack, as well as discuss ways to build them on a variety of forms.	Lecture/Discussion Unlimited No fee Handout included.
Elizabeth Annora Dernelof (MKA Elizabeth Marshak)	“Medieval Cooking for Modern Vegetarians” Some sources and recipes suitable for vegetarians and vegans will be shared. Substitutions to consider will be discussed. There are benefits to including such dishes in your next feast.	Lecture/Discussion Unlimited No fee Handout included.
Flidase ni Etigen (MKA Kristin Sideris)	“Choosing Recipes: A look at French Menus and Cookbooks” How build a feast using period recipe books and surviving menus. Based on the recent “Perfectly Period Feast, Burgundy Edition”.	Lecture/Discussion Unlimited No fee Students should bring pens and paper to take notes.
Francisco Hinojosa and Anna de Serra (MKA Anthony Hinojosa and Stacy Kilpatrick)	“Introduction to feast preparation” Prepping and finalizing lunch with discussion on how to scale up recipes for large scale food preparation.	Hands-on 1-8 participants Students should bring an apron and any favorite knives. We will be using the kitchen as food prepared in class will be lunch.
Francisco Hinojosa and Anna de Serra (MKA Anthony Hinojosa and Stacy Kilpatrick)	“From the Frying Pan into the Fire” Preparing dinner.	Hands-on 1-8 participants Students should bring an apron and any favorite knives. We will be using the kitchen as food prepared in class will be dinner.

Gwen Hir (MKA Gwen Tevis)	“Last Minute Lunches – Period Food from the Grocery Store” Need to bring lunch to an event, but don't have much time? Want something more period than a PB&J? This class will cover easy-to-make period and period-style foods you can get from the grocery store on your way to the event. Some of the foods will require mixing or chopping. None will require cooking. Together we'll make a lunch using recipes from Roman and Medieval sources and then sample the results. Students are encouraged to bring an apron and ideas of period-style foods they've found at the grocery store.	Hands-on 1-8 participants no fee Handout included.
Gwendwyn the Silent (MKA Kim Bulot-Smith)	“Dough to Dumplings: Approaches to Period Pasta” Some recipes use the same nomenclature, but are actually different. This is the case with roffjoelen which seem to be made from filled or unfilled dough, boiled in oil or fat. This class will learn to prepare four dough recipes from 16th century Dutch sources, and taste test the results.	Hands-on 1-8 participants No fee Handout included.
Gwyn Chwith ap Llyr (MKA Glen Gorsuch)	“The Reader’s Digest Guide to a Transylvanian Cookbook” Take a dive with me into The Science of Cooking, a late period cookbook for the Court of the Prince of Transylvania. What was the food like, what are the features of this cuisine, and what weird little things are tucked away in the nearly 600 recipes? How badly can Google Translate mangle something? If you haven’t downloaded it yet, bring a thumb drive and I’ll copy it for you. Snacks provided, bring something to eat with.	Lecture Unlimited No fee Handout included.
Johnnae Ilyn Lewis (MKA Johnna Holloway)	“Treasures and Delightes” This session will quickly cover aspects of the little-known recipe book The Good Housewives Treasure of 1588 which Johnnae has recently edited and annotated. Then she moves onto the works of John Murrell, the Jacobean author of four invaluable and noteworthy books on confections and cookery.	Lecture/Discussion Unlimited No fee Handout included.

Juana Isabella de Montoya y Ramirez (MKA Donna Green-Tye)	“Early Modern Spanish Food” Overview of culinary practices in late period Spain.	Lecture Unlimited No fee Handout included.
Lucrezia ana Callista Carracciolo (MKA Christine Cianci)	“Food Sculpture” Start with some lecture with slides talking about the artform and showing a couple live examples. Then some demonstration followed by giving participants a chance to touch and work with smaller pieces of sugar paste.	Lecture/Hands On Unlimited No fee Handout included.  Students should bring alternatives to nitrile gloves if that’s a problem.
Mark von dem Falkensfenn (MKA Mark Fenn)	“The Nef - A ship-shaped table ornament” Nefs; what they are, how they were used, the evidence for them and how I made mine. The class will be a slide-based combination of art history, documentation and metalwork design and execution.	Lecture Up to 15 No fee No Handout.
Rebecca da Firenze (MKA Rebecca Friedman)	“Adasiyya and its Relatives” A discussion of the various Adasiyyas (lentil dishes) and related dishes found in Islamic cookbooks from the 10th to the 15th century. We will have samples; if you have dishes and spoons, please bring them, we will have some but may not have enough for everyone. All ages welcome.	Hands-on Unlimited No fee Handout included.
Rose de LeMans (MKA Laurie Hupman)	“Feast Management: Time + Money” A discussion of feast logistics: how to stick to a budget or even make your feast profitable, how to avoid food waste, how to plan and time your courses so the meat and sauce come out together!	Lecture Unlimited No fee Handout included.

Rose de LeMans (MKA Laurie Hupman)	“Medieval Food for the Proto-Foodie” Medieval food can seem a little intimidating and weird, but there are a surprising number of dishes that are quite familiar to the modern foodie. We'll try a few, and talk about a lot more..	Hands-on 1-8 participants no fee
Sylvie la chardonnière (MKA Monica Stroud)	“Documentation is not a dirty word” Period recipes are vague. Passing the period recipe on to someone when they ask: “how did you make this?” is not helpful. Documentation allows you to identify what you made, where the recipe comes from, any sources (other than the cookbook) that refer to that dish, other similar dishes. It also allows you to walk through the steps you used to arrive at this dish, how you came to the decision to use those steps (instead of other steps), and what I would need to do to reproduce those step to end up with the same results.	Lecture unlimited $1 fee Handout included.
Urtatim al-Qurtubiyya bint ‘abd al-Karim al-hakam al-Fassi (MKA Ellen Perlman)	“More to the cuisine of al-Andalus than the anonymous cookbook” The 13th c. so-called anonymous Andalusian cookbook has been available for over 20 years. Some scholars have used it as the definitive source for information on the cuisine of al-Andalus. But there is the 13th c. Fadalat al-khiwan fi tayibat al-ta'am wa al alwan (Delights of the table, the best foods & dishes) by Ibn Razin al-Tujibi, which has 450 recipes. I’m translating it, and it is in many ways a total contrast to the anonymous Andalusian. I will discuss their differences and similarities.	Lecture unlimited $1 fee Handout included.
Urtatim al-Qurtubiyya bint ‘abd al-Karim al-hakam al-Fassi (MKA Ellen Perlman)	“Cooking from the New 13th c. Andalusian Cookbook” The Fadalat al-khiwan fi tayibat al-ta'am wa al-alwan (Delights of the table, the best foods & dishes) is a previously barely known cookbook. A few recipes from it have been translated in works by Zaouali and the Salloum family. I am working on translating the whole book, which has 450 recipes. We will cook a dish or two from it.	Hands-on Up to 15 participants $2 fee for ingredients. Handout included.

Wulfric of Creigul, OL (MKA Jeremy Fletcher)	"Grounds for comparison." Do small changes in process make a difference in the final product? I've taken one simple period pork sausage recipe, and made different fresh and cured variations with hand-chopping and grinding. We'll test the results and decide.	Hands-on Up to 15 participants $2 fee for ingredients. Handout included.
